Cryoablation has been used recently as a treatment of various supraventricular tachyarrhythmias in children. We reviewed the medical records of 64 patients with accessory pathways who underwent cryoablation from October 1993 to June 1998. The mean age of the 64 patients was 11.6 years (range 3 to 18 years). The success rate was 95% at the first attempt and 98% at the second attempt. After successful ablation, 94% of the patients had no recurrences in a mean follow-up period of 19.6 months (range 1 to 66). Major complication rates were 1% for pericardial effusion and 0.5% for transient atrioventricular (AV) block. In the one patient who failed ablation, a successful attempt was made after a second cryoablation procedure. Cryoablation is a safe and effective method for treating various supraventricular tachyarrhythmias in children. Cryoablation of accessory pathways in children is especially desirable because it is relatively simple and inexpensive.Ermin Ekmekçi Ermin Ekmekçi (born 22 November 1973 in Istanbul) is a Turkish jazz pianist and composer. There's a good chance the Chargers and Bengals won't finish as the NFC's final two playoff teams. Why? Because the four remaining playoff teams will be the last four -- not the final four -- to make the NFC playoffs. Just to clarify: The final four teams will be the four teams in the AFC playoff picture. That's a result of the other 16 teams in the AFC and 15 teams in the NFC having one fewer playoff game in which to make the postseason than the conference with two fewer teams. So the 16-team AFC winners will meet the 15-team NFC winners in two playoff games in the season finale on Sunday in Atlanta. The final two AFC teams will be the third- and fourth-place teams. The final two NFC teams will be the first- and second-place teams. The same concept applies to the Super Bowl. The top-two teams in the NFC and the top-two teams in the AFC will be the two Super Bowl teams. So as far as I know, the Chargers and Bengals, who should each win their last games against each other, will be the last two teams to be in the playoffs. I'm not going to guarantee how the above model will play out. But these are the other three scenarios: 8-8 Colts Losing to the Bengals, 4-9 Titans, 9-7 Cardinals, 10-6 Giants... The Chargers and Bengals will be the last two teams to make the playoffs. Autonomic neuropathy is associated with impaired autonomic and cognitive function.
